

East Asian Botany, International Symposium 2011

10th Annual Meeting of the Japanese Society of Plant Systematics

18-20 March 2011

National Museum of Nature and Science, Japan University of Tsukuba

Purpose

The symposium on “East Asian Botany” was initiated as the symposium on “East Asian Plant Diversity and Conservation” in 2008 by the three societies of China, Korea and Japan: Taxonomy and Evolution Division, the Botanical Society of China (BSC), The Korean Society of Plant Taxonomist (KSPT), and The Japanese Society for Plant Systematics (JSPS). The purpose of this symposium is to provide a chance to researchers and students in East Asian countries, who are working in the field of plant taxonomy, evolution, biodiversity and its conservation, to gather and exchange the latest scientific information among them.

The first, second and third symposia were successfully held in Japan, China and Korea, respectively. This fourth symposium will be held in Tsukuba, Japan, on March 18-20, 2011, during the annual meeting of JSPS, celebrating its 10th anniversary. The official language of the symposium will be English.
